

Quantico Innovation Challenge

Application

The Quantico Innovation Challenge is a competitive application process that will award no-cost membership in the QuIC for up to six months to qualified companies. The award includes collaborative or office space as appropriate, a value of up to $3,000 and participation in the QuIC's incubation program. QuIC's curriculum for early stage companies offers business development guidance, mentorship and advisory assignments, and networking opportunities with regional innovators and investors. Companies also will participate in a pitch event with a panel made up of government agency representatives, financing experts and commercial stakeholders.

To apply for the Quantico Innovation Challenge, please fill out the following application and answer the business concept questions below. The deadline to apply is July 15, 2017. Winners will be announced at the end of July for a start date in the QuIC of August 1, 2017.
